

Anne Chaddock

"The expressions of my feelings through painting is my way of communicating with others and with myself. I view each painting as an opportunity to make a visual statement. It is exciting for me when my students find art approachable and an outlet for individual creativity and emotion. My paintings reflect the energy drawn from working with people, the sharing of enthusiasm for art as a form of communication, and self expression"

- Anne Chaddock

Anne Chaddock has been teaching classes in Richmond, Va. and selling her art work for the last 35 years. Her workshops have been conducted in the U. S., France, Ireland, Italy, and Greece. She is currently working on a workshop in Sonoma, California in 2009. Her mediums consist of watercolor, oil, acrylic, and pastels. She competes in approximately 15 – 20 artist exhibitions per year as well as painting for her gallery commitments and commissions.

Anne is a member of the Virginia Watercolor Society, Baltimore Watercolor Society, Southern Watercolor Society, Catherine Lorillard Wolf Art Club, NYC., National Watercolor Society, and the American Watercolor Society. She has competed and won many awards with these affiliations. She has also been seen in Style Magazine, Richmond Magazine, American Artist, Virginia Living, and Seattle Homes. Anne will have two pieces of artwork showcased in the "Best of Artist and Artisans of Virginia". This will be a full color book published by Kennedy Promotions due out in late 2006. Anne is in the Spring/March 2006 issue of "Traditional Homes" as well.

Anne has dedicated her life to art and its creation. Because of her extraordinary flair, her original work is in demand in the United States as well as internationally. She is currently looking for a publisher for her first book.
